Linguistic Mediation and Intercultural Dialogue between development and Integration in the Mediterranean Area

14/20 July 2008 – Casa della Cultura – Via Tomaselli, 31

Within the activities of the SANMED task force aiming at encouraging strong links in the Mediterranean Area and promoting the cooperation between the Santander Group members, the University of Catania organizes a Summer School on “Linguistic Mediation and Intercultural Dialogue between development and Integration in the Mediterranean Area”.

The Summer School takes place in the University of Catania and deals with the following topics:

- History and culture in the Mediterranean Basin
- The EU policy towards a Euro- Mediterranean Area
- Economic transition in the Euro Mediterranean Area
- European Policies in the Intercultural Dialogue for the Euromediterranean Area
- Building a community of intercultural communication, information and mutual understanding

The programme offers a variety of extracurricular activities expressly organized for all its students: a welcome dinner, an excursion to Syracuse organized in collaboration with the Faculty of Architecture, afternoons at the beach, a farewell dinner.

Students will be provided with an attendance certificate which may be evaluated by their home universities to receive free credits. In addition, an evaluation certificate can be obtained passing a final test.

The lecturers are professors of the University of Catania, experts particularly active in the field of study and guests from Santander Universities members.
